Dr. Hoshal Speaks to Lone Oak Student Body

Dr. Hoshal, president of the Anti-Saloon League, addressed the student body, February 6. At this time he had appeared before over 140,000 people in the state of Kentucky. He talked first to the high school and then to the grades.

To illustrate the kind of health we can have in old age if we take good care of our bodies, he presented himself, a perfect picture of health at 62. Dr. Hoshal explained how alcohol destroys the effectiveness of the working of the brain and tears down the body.

With many interesting facts and striking illustrations, Dr. Hoshal gave one of the most forceful lectures on the subject than most of the students had heard. He left a lasting impression that "life is swell when you keep well".

Then on Saturday night, Dr. Hoshal and a selected cast presented in our auditorium a play, "Prisoner at the Bar", showing the terrible result of taking alcohol into the body.

Debate Squad Working For Debate Tournament

Due to the fact that tires are so scarce and important, the debate schedule is somewhat shorter than in past years. Lone Oak has won all of the decision debates this year. So far they have met Hardin twice, Tilghman four times, and Mayfield twice.

Although the team is not debating many schools, the teams are learning many important principles about public speaking from the debates and instructor, Miss Billington. Meetings are held the fourth period for discussions and practice debates, preparing for the an-

Dramatic Club Play Presented February 17

The Dramatic Club play, "The Ghost Files South", was presented at 8:00 o'clock, February 17, in the high school auditorium with approximately 300 in attendance.

Anita Meredith was played by Frances Thompson, who put on an excellent performance. Her sister Diana, played by Julia Baldree, who did as well, and Tyler Rankin played by Jackie Williams. All together made up a fantastic story to cover up the truth of their gambling which they wanted kept a secret from Mrs. Winthrop, played by Pauline Newton, and her son, Morgan, played by R. C. Ward. The story was going good until their plans were upset by Grandma, played by Cleo Elliott, who did a splendid piece of work. She would and then wouldn't remember Uncle William, whom Anita, Diana and Tyler had made up. There was Mrs. Homer Reed, who gave them a scare by trying to investigate the situation. Morgan and Mrs. Winthrop caught on and tried to teach Anita a lesson which ended that Anita taught Morgan a lesson by showing him you can't beat a woman in the game.

The cast was as follows:

- Diana Meredith—Julia Baldree.
- Grandma Bantry—Cleo Elliott.
- Morgan Winthrop—R. C. Ward.

Back Him—Our Nation

Some sixty years ago, Franklin Delano Roosevelt was born into the comfortable squirochy of the Hudson River Valley. No one, unless it was his mother, felt the shadow of the wing of destiny over that birth.

Time passes until we find President Grover Cleveland during his first term in 1887. Running his fingers through the pretty blond hair of a five-year-old White House visitor in a sailor's suit. The President gravely said, "I make a strange wish for you, son, a wish I suppose no one else would make. I wish for you that you may never be the President of the United States."

Since then fifty-five years have passed. The boy who was five is now sixty. The hair that was golden is thin now and almost white. The cheeks that were smooth and rosy are now seamed and sometimes gray.

The boy for whom Mr. Cleveland so solemnly made the strange wish is today leading his nation in war. He has been President of the United States longer than any chief executive before him. When his picture flashes from newsreels in darkened theaters men and women murmur to one another, "He's certainly aged, hasn't he" or "The President doesn't look so well, does he?" It's actually astonishing how he has held up during nine bitter years in the most difficult job on earth.

People are apt to forget that the President goes about his task under an extreme physical handicap. When they see him in public or on the screen they seem to forget that for 20 years he has moved only with artificial aid. After he was stricken with infantile paralysis he carried on where most men might have quit. "I think," the President has told friends, "there is an advantage in it. When I am tempted to rise from my desk and can't I am forced to concentrate."

At Hyde Park and in the White

House the President moves about in wheel chairs down ramps made for the purpose. In public though, the President moves, however slowly, under his own power. He has never made political capital of his condition.

Remembering these details you're apt to realize that not all the lines in the President's face come from care of office. Pain writes with the same pencil.

The president's physical condition, however, remains basically sound, his extraordinary stamina does not seem to flag. His regular exercise, carefully supervised meals, and his ability to relax have been powerful factors in keeping him well under wartime strain of 14 hours a day.

Realizing these facts, surely we can appreciate more fully the man that is known as few Americans have been known. He is known to the meanest coolie on the Burma Road. His is a name that issues familiarly from the rare loud speaker in the Moroccan desert. On ships at sea and under sea, in the far strange places of the earth people hear those Dutch-sounding syllables—ROOSEVELT.

Three Great Americans

During the month of February, we pause to pay tribute to pay tribute to three great Americans—Washington, Lincoln, and Edison.

George Washington was born on the shores of the Potomac River, at a plantation in Westmoreland County, Virginia, February 22, 1732. His life was marked with many brave acts, such as during the Revolutionary War when he was so sick with fever that he rode into the battle with a pillow in his saddle. Four bullets zipped through his coat, and two horses were shot from under him.

For his bravery and promise to raise and subside an army at his own expense, he was made commander-in-chief of the Army June 15, 1775. He was later unanimously elected President of a new United States. Thus he became known as the "Father of our country".

He died December 14, 1799. The love and reverence all nations feel for Washington, honors him, but his illus-

'WAY BACK WHEN

by JOE REBIK

1920—Lone Oak High School was housed in a simple building and had a corps of five teachers.

1928—Coach "Bubba" Holland's team, called the Lone Oak Yellow Jackets. Randolph Gore, Lone Oak's center, received a gold basketball for making the all-tournament team.

1930—County Sup. C. H. Gentry announced a $13,500 brick addition to Lone Oak School.

1931—Joe T. Odle resigned as principal of Lone Oak High. Miss Billington's cousin, Horace Berry, elected editor of Enterprise.

1932—Paul Owen, editor of Enterprise, awarded gold medal for being best all-round scholar in county. Bob Sanderson chosen as most popular boy in school.

1934—Lone Oak debating team, composed of J. A. Warren, R. Allen, L. Caldwell and H. Ballentine, won State Championship. Their coach was Herman Miller.

rious example loses its value if we think of him as a superhuman being. He was very human and his glory is due the love he bore his fellow man, his resistance to temptation to seek power and glory.

Then on February 12, 1809, the sixteenth President of the United States was born in Kentucky. Abraham Lincoln had little schooling, not over a year in all, but he was too interested in learning to depend on school teachers. He had discovered two great sources of knowledge; one, books, and the other older people. Not able to own books, he borrowed them and stored away their contents in his mind.

After being admitted to the bar in 1837, he rose from circuit lawyer in Illinois to the President of the United States. He was the emancipator of the slaves and preserved the Union which he termed "that Government of the people, by the people, for the people, should not perish from the earth." He was assassinated April 15, 1865.

Last is Thomas A. Edison, who was born in Milan, Ohio, and rose to the position of one of the world's greatest inventors. Edison credited his success to hard work rather than genius. Although he had a patent on 1033 inventions, it is said he never tried to perfect one without first investigating the human need for it, and its commercial practicability. He died October, 1931.

As we think of Washington, "The Father of our country", Lincoln who "preserved the Union", and Edison, the "wizard of inventions", it is not enough to recognize them as great men. We must study the cause of their greatness and try to profit from that.

Surely we can appreciate life more as we realize what they have given to us. Then, too, their acts give us more to fight for in this present war as we try to preserve this "one nation with liberty and justice for all."

It's Hard to Change the Time Groove

For several years we have been in the habit of doing such and such a thing according to Central Standard Time. Then out of Washington came the proclamation that we would change to what President Roosevelt termed "war time".

So on Monday morning, February 9, countless thousands of clocks 'round here were individually and severally registering "war time", keeping step with the clocks of the national capitol and the nation at large.

Those who had their eyes wide open at 8 a. m., war time, witnessed a very gorgeous sunrise which looked like a war picture as the great ball of fire came up over the horizon and met floating clouds tinted with its brilliant red rays. It seemed to be a special show put on for the benefit of the war time minded, for the big show lasted only twenty minutes and was soon obscured by sodden skies that produced a little rain, a little sleet and the day was decidedly gray.

However, this wasn't the only disruption of regularities. Some forgot to change their clocks and the result was that a bus arrived twenty-five minutes too early and several students were late to class.

Even though we are about accustomed to the new procedure, we must admit that once we get in a certain groove, it's hard to change. All this goes to show how wonderful the human mind really is, as it can get used to most anything, which may be further proved throughout the duration of this war.

Purple Flash Comes Out of Slump in the Stretch

Lone Oak will enter the Second District Tournament at Heath on March 3 with a good season under its belt. The standing of .762 winning 16 and losing 5. Three losses, those to Sharpe, Heath and Mayfield came in a Flash slump period, toward the last quarter of the season's play. The other two losses were to Brookport an early season upset and the other to the strong Calvert City five before Christmas.

It looks as if it will be McCracken county's year in the tournament. Both Lone Oak and Tilghman have whipped Ballard's finalist in the county tournament, La Center and Barlow decisively. Heath has been up and coming fast, defeating both Lone Oak and Tilghman in the past two weeks, but inconsistently lost to Barlow last Friday night.

Fate matched Lone Oak and Heath in a first-round fight. In the season's play the two teams split, Lone Oak won the first easily, but lost the last to Heath on their floor by 4 points. The winner of this melee should go to the finals to meet either La Center or Tilghman. The tournament should furnish some thrilling games with perhaps an upset or two lurking in the background.

Following is a resume of the games since the last issue of the Oak "K" and also a record of all the games played by Lone Oak in her 21-game schedule.

LONE OAK CONQUERS IRVINGTON

Lone Oak's Purple Flash was dealt a big blow when it dropped victories to such teams as Mayfield and Heath. Neither of these conquering fives has a record or team in Lone Oak's bracket, the simple reason is L. O. is slipping and they are really on ice this time because they drew Heath in the first game of the district tourney.

Bill Owens while playing forward in three games got more points than Brother Jack has for the season. He has been moved back to guard to make room for the aces, Jack Owens and James Hayden.

The reason Cotton W. doesn't score more is he doesn't have the ball passed to him until the lights are ready to go out. There are too many stars on this team and they can't stand to be outshone.

We wonder if Charlie Rhodes will help the Purple Flash any.

Did you notice that L. O. broke 50 points for the first time, minus the services of two first-string stars (or are they).

Not preaching or coaching, but we suggest Bill Knight be given more duty at one of the guards.

The district tourney will be held at Heath. Play will start on Tuesday, March 3. Following is a resume of Lone Oak's basketball season.

SO THEY SAY . . .

This conversation was overheard at a girl's Slumber Party. The gossip was very interesting and was translated. Those attending were Norma Don Morris, Pauline Newton, Pauline Terrell, June Lamar, Frances Thompson, Julia Baldree, Cleo Elliott, Grayce Terrell and Eunice Sanderson.

It seems as though the Lone Oak girls set the blame for keeping the ball boys out late, but to be clear it could be the Mayfield girls. Some of the students are worrying about how they are going to get to Slim's now that play practicing is over. Pauline Terrell got slightly nervous the other night when she got a long distance call from St. Louis. Wonder who was calling? Chili kinda got the worst end of the deal of his date with the most beautiful girl in the United States the other night. Some other boy beat his time. Why don't the boys go with some of the girls at Lone Oak so they won't have to hitch hike. Has every one heard how Ralph B. admires Red Evening gowns. Why can't Gene Love be a little older? The girls he tries to date won't go and the older girls are too old for him. Just wait Marjorie you'll be wanting Gene and his car some day. Roger Roetties is so bashful and kinda nice looking, too. What did Jackie do while Londa's boy friend from the air corps was in? Will Pauline H. win a scholarship to college like her sister did? Pauline Newton and Frances T. are thinking of taking up collection to buy a suit coat and a tie for the senior boys next year to wear when they have their pictures made for the annual. Everyone is wondering how many Seniors will really graduate this year. Shirley S. is really a star basketball player and as rough as her hister Eunice.

Refreshments were served at twelve and everyone went to bed.

The question of the advisability of young able-bodied male citizens of the United States being conscripted into one full year of military training is proving to be very appropriate for the present time. Those debating the question are Allen Ross and Verl Masters on the affirmative; and R. C. Ward, Mary Lee Richie and Max Robinett upholding the negative issue.

GRADE-BI-GRADE

Mrs. Porter—1st Grade

Our teacher has been reading the book "Billy Whiskers" to us. Each day we listen to one of his adventures. He certainly gets into a lot of trouble, but we enjoy hearing about them.

Miss Shelton—1st and 2nd Grades

We had a Valentine party in our room and received many Valentines. We are now trying to sell as many defense stamps as possible.

Mrs. Munier—2nd Grade

We have been reading some plays and learning to perform some of the stories we read. We also learned how to choose the scenes and characters for our plays. We presented "Goldilocks and the Three Bears" for our chapel program on February 25th.

Mrs. Sanderson—3rd Grade

We have used the month of February as a month in which to study about our country. We have also made attractive posters and booklets about America.

Mrs. Myers—3rd and 4th Grades

3rd grade honor roll: Mary Louise Enderlin, Wanda Sue Laurence, Betty Fordham, and Delores Owen.

4th grade honor roll: Bobby Downing, Leon Rudolph and Jean Floyd.

Jean Floyd, Mary L. Enderlin and Wanda S. Laurence have been on the honor roll every month of this school year.

Miss Futrell—4th Grade

Honor roll for fifth month: Mary Allma Keeling, Anita Brannon, Bobby Morris, Johnny May, and Richard Ward. Mary Alma has been on the honor roll every month.

Mrs. Maddox—5th Grade

We enjoyed exchanging Valentines. We won the spelling match we had with Miss Peeble's room only by a small margin. We plan to do better next time. By drawing the front of the school without first having looked at it for that purpose, we found that our knowledge of a familiar object was very accurate. We are enthusiastically trying to improve on our second drawing. We are proud of the taken by our pupils in buying stamps. Though our standing has remained third, almost every one has taken part in our sales.

Miss Peebles—5th and 6th Grades

Ruth Ellen Williams won the award given by the Oak "K" in selling the most subscriptions for the school paper in the grades.

We are still saving waste paper to help defense. The three that are leading in buying defense stamps are: Sammie Newton, J. C. Hooper, and J. T. Cornwell.

Mrs. Dodds—6th Grade
