DeBow is crowned Queen at 1983-84 Homecoming

By Leigh Ann Akin

Senior Cindy DeBow was chosen as the 1983 Football Homecoming Queen at Flash Field, Friday, October 7. She was elected by the varsity football team and crowned by last year's queen, Lori Webb.

Miss DeBow is the daughter of John and Janie DeBow of 4466 Chicadee Drive. She has participated in DECA, Biology Club, Tennis Club, tennis team, Student Council, and Key Club. Cindy is captain of the varsity cheerleading squad, and is president of Phi Alpha Delta sorority. She has held a class office all four years and was a class favorite her sophomore and freshman years. She was chosen Basketball Homecoming Attendant her junior year. Cindy is included in the 1983 edition of Who's Who Among American High School Students, and participated in the 1983 Youth Leadership Salute. She was escorted by Joel Bickerstaff.

The other five candidates from the senior class were Abigail Baker, Cathy Williams, Dawn Alexander, Danya Lamont, and Jo Beth Chambers.

Abigail Baker is the daughter of Thurman and Jen Baker of 111 Windsor Drive. Abigail is president of the Biology Club. She is a member of the Key Club, FBLA, and has served on Student Council. She attended the 1983 Kentucky Girl's State assembly. Abigail is included in the 1983 edition of Who's Who Among American High School Students, and was honored in the 1983 Youth Leadership Salute. She was escorted by Brent Jones.

Cathy Williams is the daughter of Larry and Betty Williams of 3820 Cleary Drive. Cathy is president of the Art Club, and is a member of the Pep Club. She attended the 1983 Kentucky Girl's State assembly. Cathy is included in the 1983 edition of Who's Who Among American High School Students, and participated in the 1983 Youth Leadership Salute. She was escorted by Brian Bell.

Dawn Alexander is the daughter of Ron and Cheris Alexander of 180 Ken Lane. Dawn is vice-president of DECA and Tennis Club secretary. She is a member of the tennis team and treasurer of Phi Alpha Delta sorority.

Academic team wins at Executive Inn Showdown

By Joey Fosko

Lone Oak High School has decided to put more emphasis on its Academic Team which competes against other schools. The team, which is coached by Mr. Don Baker, defeated four teams to win a local tournament, October 8.

Why have schools suddenly started fielding these teams? "There was a lot of renewed interest in this when some local schools, such as St. Mary and Heath, started holding matches between schools, and with the recent studies on public education in America saying that public education is lacking in some areas, a lot of schools joined in," says Mr. Baker.

Consequently, many schools in the first and second basketball regions of Kentucky formed the Western Kentucky Academic Association, which may decide to hold a regional tournament sometime this year. However, there is no planned statewide tournament for champions of each region in the state, yet.

The Lone Oak Academic Team started its season by competing in the Heath High School National Honor Society Academic Showdown, a 16-team tournament held at the Executive Inn Riverfront. Lone Oak defeated Ballard Memorial, Henry County, Tn., St. Mary, and Murray High to win the tournament. The team received a trophy and a cash award for the victory.

The team that competed at the Executive Inn was composed of seniors Peter Besold, Kevin Clark, and Norman Meredith, and juniors Joey Fosko and Jeff Mudd. Alternates were Juliana Mobley and Tina Ligon.

Letter to the editor

Editor:

Although Ken McKinney may be the official record critic for the OAK K, I think he should be more fair in his criticism of one of the more popular bands in our school, not to mention the nation! The next time he blasts "Heavy Metal" bands he should think about the fact that those same bands fill arenas all over the world, while his "New Wave" bands have to stick to small clubs. He called "Metal Health" "genuinely appalling," well, many think his reviews are genuinely appalling.

"Heavy Metal Fan"
Mark Zimmerman

Mr. Zimmerman:

In response to your letter, when I review a record, popularity does not affect my criticism. As for New Wave bands having to stick to small clubs, your information is extremely inadequate. New Wave bands have just as large a following as Heavy Metal bands. Apparently your musical knowledge does not reach beyond Paducah.

In reply to your statement that you think my record reviews are "genuinely appalling," I really couldn't care less. I'm merely stating my opinion.

By the way, I still think "Metal Health" is about as enjoyable as the flu.

Collins-Bunning views show concern for Kentucky's education

November's general election will climax many months of campaigning by the two gubernatorial candidates, Martha Layne Collins and Jim Bunning, nominated in the May primary. John Y. Brown Jr.'s tenure as governor will end in December when the new governor is sworn in at the inauguration.

Whether Collins or Bunning should win the election, Kentucky's schools will apparently win the support for an increase in educational quality. Recent statistics show that Kentucky has the highest dropout rate for high school students. Collins, a former public school teacher, proposes that high school students must take a competency test before receiving a diploma. Beginning teachers would also have to take competency tests should Collins be elected.

Bunning goes one step further by increasing the minimum age for graduation from 16 years of age to 18 years of age. He also feels that students in every grade should take tests for achievement. If Bunning is elected, no one without a high school diploma will be allowed on a local school board.

Collins expects to increase the number of students who go on the college or vocational school. In doing so, she would increase the college loans available for Kentuckians with goals of higher education. Bunning would establish special funds for the less fortunate schools of Kentucky.

Both candidates feel it is a necessity to create jobs for Kentucky's citizens.

Collins offers additional tax incentives for businesses creating and filling new jobs, and to permit an extension of payment on local property taxes to encourage job development. Bunning, a former financial consultant, would bring new jobs to Kentucky, "by selling Kentucky to prospective business leaders" and "butt heads with other governors to win businesses."

When the polls open on Nov. 8, the decision as to who will be the next governor of Kentucky will be made by the voters.

American forces in Beirut—nonsense!

As if America doesn't have enough problems of its own to handle, we have to go and get involved in situations that are really none of our business.

The best example of this "nosiness" is the presence of U.S. Marines in Lebanon. Our Marines are part of a multinational force, composed of French, British, Italian and American troops, sent to Beirut to "keep the peace." In actuality, the Marines are accomplishing nothing more than being used as targets for the Druze, Phalangists and Shiite Moslem militias. To date, the number of U.S. Marines killed in this senseless effort enforce the peace is six, along with 51 others wounded.

The multinational force is supporting the ideas of President Amin Gemayel and the Lebanese Army. Basically, the force's main objective is to "quiet down" all these radical militias, and allow Gemayel to take his rightful stand as President of Lebanon. Unfortunately, however, these militias have no intentions of relinquishing their positions, since each separate group feels they are justified to lead the country.

The Druze militia, under the command of Walid Jumblatt, is supplying the American forces with most of their problems. The Druze are entrenched deep in the hills of the Chouf Mountain area, in excellent position to bombard American encampments with various sorts of munitions. The Druze are receiving quite a bit of military help from the Syrians, who in return, are receiving military assistance from the Russians.

Although a cease-fire pact went into effect Sept. 26, it's clear now that these rebellious, surly fighters are not planning on agreeing to the terms of the cease-fire anytime in the near future.

So what are the American troops and other members of the multinational forces to do? Sit back and watch as more and more of their comrades are picked off by snipers, while they, the peace-keeping forces, are only allowed "measured response" to the gunfire aimed at them? We say to Reagan and to the Department of Defense, pull our men out and let those zealots fight their own civil war. We want our men home!

In the short period of time since this editorial was written, another tragedy has befallen the U.S. Marines stationed in Beirut. Early Sunday morning, Oct. 23, a suicide driver rammed a truck laden with explosives into the barracks where the American troops were sleeping. The death toll is still rising. At the last count, the number of Marines killed was 216. Around 85 are wounded or still missing in the rubble.

Can we, the American people, afford to remain passive while our sons, brothers and husbands are being murdered in a war which is not even ours? Again we appeal to President Reagan: Either get our men out, or blow the bloodsuckers off the face of the earth.

Dear Abby

Cutters Put Down

Dear Abby:

Every day, I hop down to the lunchroom, take my place in the back of the line, and wait patiently for my delicious meal. I begin to get disturbed, however, when the multitudes begin sneaking around and sliding in line in front of me. I have tried blocking their way, and chanting such phrases as, "Cutters are losers," but they are not moved by these tactics. Are these meals so yummy that the thought of waiting in line an extra couple of minutes mortifies them?

What can I do about these people who insist on ruining my lunch period, Abby? Would expelling people for lunchline cutting be too stiff of a penalty? Is there any way that we could get armed patrol officers to enforce the no-cutting policy? Please help.

A Distressed Luncher

Dear Distressed Luncher:

After carefully pondering your situation, I have decided upon three excellent solutions.

1) Set up a Rent-a-Megaphone stand at the entrance to the cafeteria. Megaphones could be rented for the entirety of the lunch period for a small fee which would seem insignificant compared to the amount of enjoyment you will receive when shouting the cutter's name for everyone to hear.

2) Install a toll free hot line number directly to Mr. Buddy Rushing so that you can alert him of this serious misdemeanor before it is committed.

3) Take a trip down to the local armory and purchase a sub-machine gun to teach these deceiving, dimwitted cretins a lesson they're not likely to forget.

Dear Abby:

I'm convinced that one of my closest friends has a severe emotional problem. He is constantly doing strange things. Here lately he has been imitating a chicken. He struts like a chicken, clucks like a chicken and pretends to lay eggs. His family cannot afford professional help for him. Can you please tell me if other help is available?

Signed,
Rhode Island Red

Dear RI Red:

I can appreciate your concern for your friend's condition, but looking from the family's viewpoint, I don't think you should get involved. It sounds as if they could use the eggs. MYOB.

Holly Bruce is the Junior Rotarian for October.

Holly Bruce serves as Rotarian October's

By Ken Thompson

Holly Bruce has been chosen this month's Junior Rotarian.

Every month a person is chosen by the faculty to represent Lone Oak High School at Rotarian luncheon held at the Irvin Cobb Hotel.

After graduation, Holly plans to study art and engineering at the University of Kentucky.

Holly belongs to the Beta Club and Art Club. She likes to enter some of her art work in contest, and she is also interested in foreign languages.

ART CLUB

Recently, the Art Club invited a speaker from the Art Institute of Atlanta named Susan Greer. She talked about the salaries of different professions in art. Later in the meeting, she showed slides of art work done by the students in Atlanta.

Art Club "Students of the Month" are Melinda Smith and Dan Jones.

TENNIS CLUB

In the last meeting, the Tennis Club discussed getting team jackets.

The Tennis Club also plans to take a trip to Memphis to the U.S. Indoor Championship.

PHYSICAL SCIENCE CLUB

The Physical Science Club is planning a trip to Western Kentucky University. During the course of their visit, the club plans to go to a planetarium and to a ballgame. The date of departure is November 12.

FBLA

Last month's activities of FBLA included a bake sale and a pizza party in which there were 19 participants.

Members of the club will be collecting in home rooms for the annual telethon.

FBLA's Christmas box is located in the business department. Donations of food and clothing will be appreciated.

FHA had a yard sale October 8th and made a profit of $51.59.

On October 27 the FHA plans to initiate new members. All members are to attend this meeting.

10 Choral students to participate in Quad State

By Carol Mueller

Ten Lone Oak juniors and seniors will participate in the annual Quad State Chorus, November 7 at Murray State University.

A list of names of choral students were submitted to the M.S.U. Quad State Committee. Ten juniors and seniors were chosen from Lone Oak to attend.

The students are: Tiffin Beck, Kevin Clark, John Folsom, Shannon Fuller, Keith Harned, Darall Harris, Greg Jones, Renee Thompson, Michelle Whaley and Alling Yancy.

Choral students from around area states will present an evening concert. The Lone Oak students will present one major work, "Gloria" by Antonio Vivoldi. The concert will be accompanied by the M.S.U. symphony, and conducted by Stephen Rosalack.

Nothing else feels like real gold

If it makes you look like Miss Piggy ; Don't wear it

By Cathy Williams

After seeing all of the fall fashions, I have come to the conclusion that fashion designers have a great sense of humor.

Think about that for a minute; the only people who really look good in designer clothes are about six foot tall and weigh about 12 pounds. These disgusting people never have zits or hair that "just won't do anything," they have straight white teeth and long legs.

And that is what those greedily little designers want us to see. They want us to think that if we buy their bizarre clothes, we'll look just like models.

Well, I have bad news for all of you who have ever had to roll up a cuff six or eight times... you'll never look like a model. Since this is the case for most of us, we should approach designer clothing with the question "Does this really make me look good?"

There is nothing weird about wanting or wearing "DESIGNER CLOTHES". Unfortunately, if you wear "DESIGNER CLOTHES" just to be wearing "DESIGNER CLOTHES," then not only will you look weird, but everyone will think you are a "mega-snob."

The moral of this story is: Don't buy clothes just to have them, buy them to make you a nicer person to look at.

Here's the LATEST

By Rhonda Lawrence

For the fashion-conscious teen, this fall's styles have everything from the everlovin' preppy to the ever so daring "Vogue."

Many people think the preppy look is fading fast, but the fashions for both guys and girls are headed in "Muffy" and "Skippy's" direction. The new preppy look is argyle sweaters, vests, sweatshirts, and socks. They are accented with corduroy pants and bermuda shorts, knit and silk ties, saddle oxfords in red and white, pink and grey, and traditional black and white.

Totally opposite from the preppy look is the "Vogue" look. These styles include dresses with big buttons down the side and oversized boxy blazer, worn with men's ties and narrow-legged baggy pants. Ankle boots complete the look. For the guys shirts with zipper pockets, shoulder tabs, and side buttons in pinstrips and solids are making the scene. Also, emphasis is being placed on pinstriped jeans and corduroys. These look best when worn with thin neckties and pointed toes shoes.

The dressy, party look for the holidays will be silk and crepe de chine dresses and blouses, with pleats and tucks down the front. Wool tweed herringbone blazers for both girls and guys worn with wool pants and skirts are a necessity fo special occasions.

The colorings for fall with be muted in teal blues and greens, burgandy, deep purple and grey.

RECORD REVIEW

By Ken McKinney

"The Final Cut" by Pink Floyd is indeed a work of art. Although I dislike the style of music that Pink Floyd performs, I can recognize talent. "The Final Cut" is both musically and lyrically superior. The lyrics reflect on personal tragedies and world problems. The music itself is intelligent and up-to-date. Pink Floyd should be saluted for being around so long and not sinking into obscurity and decadence. "The Final Cut" may be Pink Floyd's best album yet. It is a definite must if you are an avid Pink Floyd fan.

"Construction Time Again" by Depeche Mode is synthesized music in its most excellent state. Depeche Mode utilizes the steady and rhythmic beat of a drum machine, the heavy tones of a bass synthesizer, and the complicated harmonies and melodies of lead synthesizers. Lyrically, the songs on "Construction Time Again" convey views on the threat of nuclear war, conservation of natural resources, love and poverty. Musically, Depeche Mode performs the best electronic music since Gary Numan and Kraftwerk. That mean Depeche Mode is hard to surpass. If you are a loyal follower of synthesizer dominated bands, then "Construction Time Again" is an essential part of your record collection.

"Keep It Up" by Loverboy is a truly sickening album. I would rather grab high tension wires than listen to this garbage again. "Keep It Up" gives off the impression that Loverboy has the mentality of dead trees. The music is about the same as the "Get Lucky" and the lyrics are shallow and ignorant. Loverboy must be a group of sadists to subject the public to this kind of torture. There should be a law to protect people from such musical stupidity as "Keep It Up." If you've listened to the album, it's plain to see that Loverboy is performing a sorry excuse for Heavy Metal. In my opinion, Loverboy will have to try to make a more lousy album than "Keep It Up." I certainly don't recommend the album.

Halloween is more than just tricks and treats

By Leigh Ann Akin

Halloween is a festival of Scottish-Irish origin, held on All Hallows Eve, the night of October 31. Customs can be traced to a Druid ceremony in pre-Christian times.

In the A.D. 800's, the Catholic church established All Saint's Day on November 1 so that people could continue the festivals of the new year. And they celebrated the dead before becoming Christians. The mass that was said on this day was called Allhallowmans. The evening before became known as All Hallowe'en, or Halloween.

In Europe, during medieval times, elves, fairies, and witches (who usually took the shape of cats) were believed to fly on All Hallows Eve, and bonfires were lit to ward off these spirits. Halloween was also a time for games and rituals involving the foretelling of the future. Through such omens as apple parings thrown over the shoulder or nuts burned in the fire, young people tried to determine their martial prospects.

Halloween traditions were brought to America by and Scots and Irish, where the pumpkin replaced the turnip for carved jack-o'-lanterns. In the late 19th century the Irish believed that the "little people" or fairies, played pranks on Halloween and led boys and young men to carry out practical jokes on that night. They would but a buggy on a roof or overturn small buildings. In the 20th century a less destruction practice has become customary. Children dress up in costumes and go from door to door for trick or treats.

Band achieves its goal despite adverse conditions

By Gregg Jones

The Lone Oak Kentucky Colonel Band and director Gary Crisp had a goal in mind when they took the practice field this summer. That goal was to make the final competition of the prestigious Contest of Champions in Murfreesboro, Tenn. Saturday, October 22, the band achieved its goal, but it was not easy.

It was not a beautiful day for a marching contest. The gusty winds and rain would affect the performance of most of the 30 bands. When the Colonels took the field at 3:36, the weather was not on the bands side. As a matter of fact, it appeared to be against the band. The winds speed had increased and instead of a light drizzle of rain, it began a downpour that caused many fans to head for shelter. The rain did not dampen the spirits of the Lone Oak Band who were one of the eight finalist bands. "I felt like the band did the best that it could do under such adverse conditions," said field commander Beth Hughes.

The band received a superior rating and a seventh place trophy cup for a job well done.

The previous Saturday, October 15, the band participated in the Festival of Champions contest at Murray State University. The band received a superior rating and was chosen as one of nine finalists. In the final competition, the band placed second and was crowned Reserve Grand Champions with a score of 87.75 out of a possible 100.

This marked the first time that the band did not win the overall award and several band members were disappointed. "I felt like this was the best we'd ever done," said Mr. Crisp commenting on the bands performance.

The band took top honors at the Heath "March for the Gold" contest on October 8 by winning Best Percussion in Class AAA, Best Color Guard in Class, first place Field Show, and the Sweepstakes Award.

The week before, at Caldwell County's "Festival of Pride," the band also won top honors. Competing in class AAAA, the band won first place Field Show, Outstanding Guard and the overall Sweepstakes trophy.

Lone Oak is 1983-84 McCracken County Champs

Lone Oak 35, Reidland 0

Lone Oak, instead of the traditional Heath, won the McCracken County Football Championship by defeating the Reidland Greyhounds 35-0, September 30.

The Oakers dominated the entire game, both offensively and defensively. Lone Oak's ground game rushed for a total of 361 yards, while the defense held the Hounds to only 68 rushing yards.

The first score of the game came as a result of a 16-play that ended with a 6-yard pass from junior quarterback Troy Dowdy to junior fullback Ethan Taylor.

The second touchdown was set up by a pass from Dowdy to senior Tim Raney. Raney pitched back to Taylor, who dashed 28 more yards on the play. On the next play, Taylor ran 21 yards for a score.

Lone Oak didn't have to rely on Taylor's scoring ability alone. The Oakers used 10 different backs in the game, and on the third score, it was senior Theodore Peshehonoff who crossed the goal line. Peshehonoff scored from six yards out with 22 seconds left in the half. At the end of the half, Reidland faced 21-0 deficit.

In the second half, Lone Oak continued to dig out the yards, and add to its score. Taylor, with J.D. Overton's extra point kick, made the score 28-0 on a 3-yard touchdown run. Junior John Myers added another TD late in the quarter with a 7-yard run. With 2:17 left in the quarter, Lone Oak had a commanding 35-0 lead.

The Lone Oak defense shut down Reidland's offensive game, allowing only 86 total yards. With the victory, Lone Oak increased its winning record to 4-2.

Lone Oak 29, Crittenden Co. 8

The Flash upped its record to 5-2 as Ethan Taylor and Theodore Peshehonoff combined for over 200 yards rushing in a 29-8 victory over Crittenden County, October 7, homecoming evening.

Lone Oak raced to a 14-0 lead at halftime behind touchdowns by Taylor and Peshehonoff and seemed in control until Crittenden punter Johnny Cryder scored on a 64-yard run on a fake punt. The two-point conversion was good and the score was 14-8 in the third quarter. But on the next possession, Taylor scored on a 55-yard run to take a 21-8 lead. In the fourth quarter, John Myers rounded out the scoring on a 12-yard run to make the final score 29-8 in favor of Lone Oak.

Murray 24, Lone Oak 21

Lone Oak suffered its third defeat Friday, Oct. 18, as the Murray Tigers came from behind to win a see-saw battle 24-21.

After a scoreless first quarter, Lone Oak took the early lead with a 7-yard touchdown by senior full-back Theodore Peshehonoff. J. D. Overton's extra point kick made the score 7-0. It wasn't long before Murray got on the scoreboard with a 27-yard pass from quarterback Mark West to fullback Mark Boggess. Another Murray back, Chris Furmer, added six more to make the score 12-6 at the half.

In the third quarter, junior Ethan Taylor put the Oakers back on top with a 65-yard dash. Overton's extra point made the score 14-12. Later in the quarter, the Tigers recovered the lead with another West-to-Boggess TD connection making the score 18-14.

The next score came in the fourth quarter when Taylor weaved his way through Tiger defenders and ran 35 yards for the third Oaker touchdown. With 1:40 left in the game, Murray had the ball with a fourth-and-15 situation. The West-to-Boggess combination worked one more time as West connected from 45 yards out to take the lead with 1:27 left to play. Lone Oak failed to score and Murray upset the Flash 24-21.

Hopkinsville 21, Lone Oak 20

The Hopkinsville Tigers hosted the Flash October 21. The Tigers needed a win to set up their district showdown last Friday night with Paducah Tilghman. Despite a furious comeback by the Flash, the Tigers held on to a 21-20 victory.

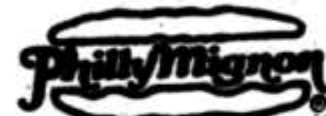

Facing elimination from the district title, the Flash started terribly, committing two turnovers that led to Hoptown scores, and allowing a 92-yard punt return. After one quarter Hopkinsville led 21-0.

Lone Oak started its comeback in the second quarter on junior tailback Ethan Taylor's touchdown run. J. D. Overton's kick was good and Lone Oak trailed 21-7. The comeback continued in the second half. Quarterback Troy Dowdy's 36-yard run made it 21-14, and with only minutes remaining, Taylor recovered a fumble and ran it in the end zone to pull the Flash within one point. On the two-point conversion attempt, however, Taylor was stopped a foot from the goal line. The Flash could not score as the game ended with Hoptown leading 21-20.
